

Special Notice

Intended audience: Printers or publishers of newspapers or eligible digital content.

Dec. 1, 2023

Newspaper publishers B&O tax exemption

Starting Jan. 1, 2024, businesses primarily engaged in printing or publishing of newspapers or eligible digital content are exempt from business and occupation (B&O) tax. The exemption expires Jan. 1, 2034.

Are there any exceptions?

Yes. The exemption must be reduced by an amount equal to the value of any expenditure made by the business during the reporting period. These amounts are subject to B&O tax based on the associated business activity.

How do I claim the exemption?

You are not required to report income that qualifies for the exemption. However, you are required to electronically file an Annual Tax Performance Report by May 31 of each year following a calendar year when you claim an exemption.

What happens if I don't file the annual report?

The first time you do not file the required annual report, the department must disallow 35% of the preference claimed. For any additional years you do not file the required annual report, the department must disallow 50% of the preference claimed.

Definitions

Eligible digital content means a publication that is all the following:

- Published at regularly stated intervals of at least once per month.
- Features written content, the largest category of which, as determined by word count, contains material that identifies the author or the original source of the material.
- Made available to readers exclusively in an electronic format.

Expenditure means an amount as provided in RCW 42.17A.005.

Newspaper means both:

- A publication issued at regularly stated intervals at least twice a month and printed on newsprint in tabloid or broadsheet format folded loosely together without stapling, glue, or and other binding of any kind, including and supplement of a printed newspaper.
- An electronic version of a printed newspaper that both:
 - Shares content with the printed newspaper.
 - Is prominently identified by the same name as the printed newspaper or otherwise conspicuously indicates that it is a complement to the printed newspaper.

Primarily means more than 50% of the business's gross worldwide income from all business activities results from printing or publishing newspapers or eligible digital content.
